Rome and the Pope.

In his last letter to the Evening Post, Wm. C Bryant thus speaks of Rome:

It is not of these things, however, that I was about to speak. It is of the new gothic swarm which has overflowed Rome; the Great Western Invasion which began last year, and this year has almost made Rome a Yankee city. When I was first there, in 1835, there was not, so far as I knew, a single artist from the United States residing there. The European nations, England among the rest, had many young men studying the arts of design in its rich museums and galleries, and there were a few of wide renown, like Thorwaldsen, who made it their residence. At present I am sure that the number of American artists who have settled themselves at Rome exceeds that from any other country. In the rooms of the bankers Maquay, Packenham & Hooker, hang lists of American and British artists residing at Rome. I did not count either of them, but I saw that the American list was twice as long as the other.

The American visitors at Rome this winter are counted by thousands; and, if I were to judge by what I saw and heard passing around me, I should almost say that they had expelled the English. They have been certainly as two to one compared to those who come from the British Isles. You hear English spoken in the streets and shops, but your ear tells you that it is with an American intonation. Americans swarm at the hotels, and outbid their insular cousins for the pleasantest and sunniest suite of rooms. The consequence is, of course, that Rome has grown dearer than ever. The English complain, and not without some reason, that it is the Americans who have made it so, although the burdens of the government now resting upon a small population, and a paper money system almost as bad as our own but, perhaps, more excusable—are certainly in part the cause.

In this sudden influx of a people from a prosperous country, far beyond the deep, among whom the union of the temporal with the spiritual power is looked upon not merely as an error in government, but as a crime against the natural rights of man, a superstitious mind might see an omen of the fate that hangs over the temporal power of the papacy. I do not suppose that the ecclesiastics who bear rule within what is now the little pontifical territory so regarded it, they have doubtless other and more certain indications to occupy their attention. It may have been fancy, but it seemed to me that I saw in the faces of the more thoughtful looking ecclesiastics something different from the confident and assured tone which I had beheld there in other years—a look of discouragement, as if some sad anticipation darkened the future. I saw the Pope and several of his clergy of the highest rank at the close of a ceremonial in which they officiated at St. Peter's. In passing out of a side chapel, across the nave of that great building, they came near us. The Pope did not certainly look in bad health; he had an erect attitude—you may know, perhaps, that he is a short and rather stout man—and he walked with a firm step between the multitude of gazers, with his attendant priests on his right and left. He may last several years yet, but his warmest partisans cannot fail to see that the revolution which has deprived the Primate of the Latin Church of the far larger part of his temporal possessions is yet to be completed by taking away the rest, and that with the death of Pius IX. the pontifical authority in civil matters must come to an end.

Louis Napoleon.

The Boston Traveller comments as follows upon this important personage: Napoleon III is just fifty-nine years old, for he was born on the 20th of April, 1808, at Paris, now the capital of his empire, as then it was the capital of the much greater empire of his uncle. When French cannon were fired in honor of the birth of Charles Louis Napoleon, now Napoleon III, they were fired in almost every European country, from the Atlantic to the Vistula, and from the Baltic to the Mediterranean. The child was but a short distance from the greatest thrones, being born in the purple, and the Reigning Emperor having no children. His nominal father was Louis Bonaparte, King of Holland, and his mother was Hortense Beauharnais, daughter of the Empress Josephine. Who was his father? The Chronique Scandaleuse assigns the honor of his paternity to several distinguished gentlemen, the only sure point being that his mother's husband was not his father, and could not have been without the aid of a most tremendous miracle, and just then the saints were not on working terms with the Bonaparts.

Of all his fathers, every one is now dead, except the Comte de Flahaut is Billarderie, commonly called the Comte de Flahaut, who will be eighty-two to-morrow,—but though the Count was unquestionably the father of the Emperor's uterine brother, the late Duc de Morny, it is not quite certain that he begot the Emperor. This much for a delicate subject, as all indelicate subjects are called. The Prince had to wait for a throne more than forty years, and had fallen from high estate when he was but six, though, unlike Darius, great and good, he did not welter in his blood. And now he enters on his sixtieth year with a sea of troubles raging around him, which may wash out his purple, and wash away his throne, and at sixty-six he may be as much cast down as he was at six. He may end where he begun, to borrow Gray's expression. Prussia has changed a good deal since he was a baby, and has become a giant, and it is possible he is not the David to upset the said giant.

New York Hackmen.

Bayard Taylor, now in Europe, in his first letter, tells one of his adventures with a cabman while going to the steamer which was to convey him abroad:

"On the morning of the 9th ult, I engaged (through the clerk of the Metropolitan Hotel) a carriage to convey my family and baggage to the pier of the North German Lloyds Company in Hoboken. The price, stated by the clerk, and also agreed upon by the agent of the carriage department, was $6, including the ferry toll, quite sufficient, one would imagine, for a service of an hour and a half. (In Europe it would be $4, at most). When we reached the ferry I was obliged to pay the toll, the driver insisting he had no money. At the pier, after the trunks had been unloaded, and my family were on board the steamer, I tendered the stipulated $6. With an oath and abusive epithet, the driver demanded $8! Of course I refused. He thereupon threw the money upon the ground, seized a small trunk and swore he would keep it. I forced the trunk from him and called for a policeman. Of course none were present, and the people around looked upon the outrage with sublime indifference. In the meantime, oaths, threats, and names which any New Yorker can easily imagine for himself, were showered upon me. In a few moments one of the pier watchmen (an honest German) came to my assistance. Through his instrumentality a policeman was sent for, but the only result was that my trunk was secured from forcible robbery. The driver still swore, threatened and refused to take the money, which I thereupon put into the policeman's hands, and left. The latter presently followed me on board, and insisted that I should go before a magistrate and make a sworn declaration of the facts, not—as I presently saw—for the purpose of having the driver punished, but simply to give him a chance of backing out of the swindle with dignity. As we passed out, of the steamship yard, I suspected that most of the persons considered me the culprit and the driver the victim. The magistrate heard my statement for twenty five cents, and then handed the $6 to the driver, who departed without having received a word of rebuke. Indeed, the former politely asked the latter if he would have a written copy of my declaration, to which he (the driver) graciously replied that it was not necessary. The policeman informed me that these swindles occur 'all the time,' and that the passengers generally submit to them, through fear that their departure may be delayed. Submission, indeed, seemed to be so much a matter of course, that I did not detect the least sign of sympathy with my resistance among the bystanders. The hotel keepers of New York have it in their power to prevent this form of outrage. For instance, let travellers pay in advance and take a receipt which shall be available before a Hoboken policeman or magistrate. In order to complete my duty to the public, I advise the Messrs. Leland to inquire into the antecedents of a tall, slim scoundrel, with a short black moustache, who drives a red coach, upon which is painted 'Metropolitan Hotel!'"

Midnight Scene in Gen. Grant's Camp.

The battle of Arbela was the eloquence of darling on the part of the young Macedonian King. That of Thermopylæ was the eloquence of patriotism on the part of Leonidas and his Heroes. The battle of Austerlitz was the eloquence of bravery on the part of the young Corsican. The scene of Valley Forge was the eloquence of faith on the part of Washington. The scene after the battle of the Wilderness combined all these elements, and added the eloquence of silence.

The well-known result of that fierce conflict was adverse to the army of the United States. Gen. Lee had flung one wing of his army between our forces and the base of their supplies, which would require another battle to regain them. Each division and corps commander knew this and condition of affairs. They were all summoned to a council of war, to be held at the headquarters at one o'clock at night. They were the saddest steps ever taken by that band of devoted hearts. Fifteen thousand brave soldiers, dead or dying, or wounded, were lying on the field behind by.

One after another entered, and after making a noiseless salute silently took their seats. Gens. Schofield, Meade, Burnside, Sickles, Howard, and others, I believe, were there. Not a word was spoken. A full half hour thus passed by. Their emotions were too deep for utterance. Hopes of millions hung on the decision of that council.

At length Gen Grant asked each one in succession if they had any advice to profer. Each one answered with a sad monosyllable, no!

The commander then wrote a few lines, and handed the slip to Gen Meade, and he retired. This was repeated until all were gone, and the General was left alone. One of the staff of a division commander, who was sick, was the last to retire, and he is authority for the above.

All were ignorant of each other's order. They felt assured that retreat had been directed. Any other alternative would have been believed to be madness. Had they known that the order had been given to advance, instant and universal mutiny would have been raised. That eloquent silence for which he has ever been noted, was the key to his success there.

The next morning each corps moved, and Gen. Lee, the instant he perceived it, with vehemence exclaimed: "Our enemy have a leader at last, and our cause is lost!" He had bid his officers the night before to let their soldiers sleep long. But now he saw the army whom he thought utterly defeated, moving round between him and the base of his supplies.

He hastened to begin retracing his course, and confessed to an artillery officer of the Confederate army that the doom of their cause was sealed.

Death of Hon. Samuel S. Marshall.

Hon. Samuel S Marshall, Member of Congress from the Eleventh Illinois District, died at his residence in McLeansborough, a few days since. Mr. Marshall had been suffering from a chronic disease for a number of years, and his death was not unexpected. He was a man of fair ability. He served one term as Judge of his Judicial District, and was elected to Congress from the bench in 1854, and was re-elected in 1856. In 1861 he was elected Judge of the 12th Judicial District, and in 1864 was again elected to Congress, and re elected in 1866. Personally, he was a man of fine social qualities, but a strong partisan.

The Boston Post says: "Beef hasn't been so high as it is now since 'the cow jumped over the moon'."

THE BASIS FOR DELIBERATION.

OIL CITY, Pa., May 10.

A fire this morning destroyed ten buildings, including the American Hotel. Iron tankage and other property was damaged to a considerable amount.

Two men were badly injured by a falling building.

NEW YORK, May 10.

The Herald's correspondent, referring to the war preparations of France, says: The military scenes witnessed in the streets of Paris—moving artillery wagons, guns, gun-carriages and munitions—were similar to those seen just previous to the Crimean war and Italian campaign.

The Herald's Berlin correspondent says: Prussia has made her preparations quietly and without any noise or excitement, as in France, but on a very extensive scale. Orders for the mobilization of the guards and the 8th, 9th, 10th and 11th Army Corps have been issued.

The Invobile Russe, of St. Petersburg, refers to the violence and murders perpetrated by the Turks in Crete, and the sublime heroism displayed by the Christians in resisting them. The editorial also adds that the Western press sympathize with the Turks, and that the Sultan would not order such a course if not assured of the sympathy of one or two of the Cabinets.

The Herald's Atlanta, Ga., special says: Senator Wilson was honored with a torchlight procession of black people at Augusta on Wednesday night, and spoke in Atlanta yesterday. His audience was more largely composed of whites than usual, and he was introduced by a thoroughly reconstructed rebel Colonel. Gen. Saxton, Gen. Pope, ex-Gov. Brown and many prominent citizens occupied seats on the platform. The Colored Republican Union Club were on the ground with transparencies, mottoes, etc. A dinner was given to him in the evening by Gov. Brown.

The Herald's New Orleans special says: Judge Kelly arrived yesterday and was welcomed by a committee of citizens, headed by the Mayor and Common Council. Among the delegation were several colored individuals. The Judge responded to the welcome at the St. Charles Hotel to a large audience. He will address the public on Saturday.

The Herald's St. Larned, D. T., special, dated yesterday, says: Gen. Hancock's operations on Smoky Hill route have driven the Southern Cheyennes north. They are moving in four war parties. They struck the South Platte road between Julesburg and Denver night before last, and burned two ranches.

The Indian Commission are in council with the Indians here. Messengers from the north have arrived and state that large numbers of Indians desire to come in and make peace, "Red Cloud" included. Numerous war parties are on the road between here and Fort Phil Kearney. The Indians say they shall be withdrawn.

The Times' special says: Chief Justice Chase had nothing whatever to do with the issue of the writ of habeas corpus in the case of Jeff. Davis, and that his name was attached as a mere matter of form.

The commander of Fortress Monroe will put the prisoner into the hands of the United States Marshal, who will be held responsible for his custody. Mr. Davis will be furnished rooms at the Spottswood House, Richmond, until after the hearing of the return to the writ. Thus the Government does not release its hold upon the prisoner, and the matter of bail has not been thought of. The case is one merely as to why the Government holds the prisoner.

The report that Chief Justice Chase is to go to Richmond is unfounded. He knew nothing of the issue of the writ of habeas corpus in Davis' case, until after its issue.

WASHINGTON, May 10.

Congressman Marshall, of Illinois, who is now here attending to his duties as a member of the Judiciary Committee, is much surprised at western telegrams announcing his death.

The New York Tribune's special says: The President to-night says that by reason of General Griffin's order requiring the exclusion of jurors who cannot take the the test oath the courts are closed. The question asked is: Is this ruling approved by the President? No answer will be given until the Attorney General's opinion shall be complete.

ST. LOUIS, May 10.

Hon. Green Clay Smith, Governor of Montana, and General Heath, Secretary of New Mexico, are here, en route to their posts of duty; both gentlemen accompanied by their families, and intend to establish their permanent residence in the territories named.

The steamer Wagner, of Cincinnati, running between Omaha and Sioux City, snagged yesterday 18 miles below Decatur, Nebraska. The boat was loaded with grain and railroad ties, and is a total loss. Valued at $25,000.

JULESBURG, May 10.

The Sioux Chief, "Spotted Tail," followed by 150 lodges and 800 souls, crossed the Platte today at Beaubais Ranche, 25 miles below this place, going north. They drew subsistence and supplies from Government agents and expressed themselves friendly. Some of the leading men after camping performed the "peace dance." Matters appear quiet on the Platte. The trains are moving down to commence the season's work on the railroad, which is progressing two or three miles per day, and is in good running order.

FORTRESS MONROE, May 10.

The writ of habeas corpus in the case of Jeff. Davis was served this morning on Gen. Burton, Marshal, Judge Underwood and Deputy Marshal Duncan. Gen. Burton first decided to deliver Mr. Davis over to the custody of the Marshal to-morrow morning, but afterwards determined on obeying the writ literally, requiring him to produce Davis before the Richmond court.

Davis and family, Gen. Burton and the Marshals, take the steamer to-morrow for Richmond.

Gen. Burton, on Monday, will personally produce the prisoner in court. In the event of Davis being released by Judge Underwood under the writ, he will be immediately re-arrested and tried under an indictment for treason.

Robt. Ould and numerous other visitors reached here this morning, bearing bouquets and other presents to present to Davis and family.

The utmost interest and anxiety is manifested at Norfolk respecting the probabilities of the trial and release of Davis.

The following is a copy of General Burton orders:

WAR DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, May 8th.

To Brevet Brig. General Burton, Commanding Officer, Fort Monroe:

The President of the United States directs you to surrender Jefferson Davis, now held in confinement under military authority at Ft. Monroe, to the United States Marshal or his Deputies upon any process which may issue from the Federal Court of the State of Virginia. You will report action taken by you in this order and forward a copy of the process received upon you to this office.

By order of the President,
(Signed) E. D. TOWNSEND, A. A. G.

CLEVELAND, May 10.

A prize-fight took place to-day between Bill Davis and Jim Elliott on Point au Pelice Island. Elliott won by a foul after nine rounds, occupying eleven minutes, Davis going down without a blow. Davis is badly punished, and is said by many to have sold the fight. Elliott got first blood and knock-down in first round, and in each succeeding round Davis went down to avoid his antagonist. On the boat from Detroit were two savage fights, in one of which a man had his ear and nose bitten off, otherwise the affair was orderly.

NEW YORK, May 10.

At the meeting of the American Board of Foreign Missions to-day, an encouraging report was read of its operations for the past year. Receipts for the last 8 months, $252,000—a slight increase over same period last year. Several interesting addresses were made and the meeting dispersed.

LAST APPEAL.

Call at our store and examine the stock, ask for the prices of goods, and we are confident you will say these goods are sacrificed. You will say these goods cannot be bought in New York for such prices. But we say they can and be sold as low as we do. Why can we sell cheap? Because we have no expenses and buy for Cash and sell only for Cash. Our Cash system will save us from losing bad accounts, and enable us not to tuck on to our goods extra per centage for bad accounts. Come one and all, and convince yourself of the facts.

—The usual quiet of East Franklin street was ruffled yesterday morning by a pugilistic set-to between two well known individuals. The interference of spectators prevented either from inflicting any serious injury, and "the old grudge" will probably hold good till a more convenient season.

They agreed only to disagree, and nothing important was accomplished.

—The report in circulation yesterday of the discovery of a fleshless human skeleton in a building on Franklin street, proved entirely correct. It was proved, however, to belong to a private laboratory, and no inquest was ordered. The insinuations thrown out about ghosts, spirit-rapping and body-snatching have no foundation in fact.

—We were shown yesterday the scalp of a Sioux Indian (Shoshone) sent by express to Mr. M. A. McCoy, telegraph operator, from his brother, now in Colonel Conner's command, near Salt Lake. Private McCoy was on scout, and took the scalp-lock with his own hand, after shooting the Indian with his revolver. The hair is braided into a pigtail, and is a genuine and disgusting horror.

—Pat Riley, a notorious criminal sentenced to eight years imprisonment in the Penitentiary by the Venango County Court of Sessions, escaped from the Sheriff on Tuesday night last, by jumping overboard from the steamboat Ida Rees, while going down the river. His hands were shackled with heavy irons at the time, and he is presumed to have drowned. Two shots were fired at him by the Sheriff, and as that failed to bring him up, a reward of $250 is now offered.

—About twelve o'clock on Thursday night a fire broke out in the vicinity of the A. & G. W. Railroad track on the west side of the creek at Oil City. The fire originated in a quantity of oil which had leaked from a tank car and soon spread to the oil yards of John Mawhinney and Mr. Cochran. Some 500 barrels of oil were destroyed together with a large number of empty barrels. The American Hotel and several buildings on both sides of the street were also destroyed. The total loss cannot fall short of $16,000, on which there is some insurance. It is supposed that the fire caught from sparks from a locomotive.

CHANGE OF FIRM.—The name of D. C. Clark has long stood alone in our business circles, and it is not saying too much to aver that no name has been more fully a synonym of sound business qualities and merited success. On the first instant Mr. C. M. Hayes, for a few years past book-keeper for Mr. C., became a partner, and the new firm is styled Clark & Hayes, and we predict that again, and in this instance the old adage will be verified, [that "in union there is strength." Mr. Clark, as will be seen by our Local Notice column, is closing out his entire stock of liquors, and the firm will devote their business entirely to the grain, provision and flour trade.

THE DOYLE MURDER.

Examination of Zebulon B. Burdick, charged with the Murder of John Doyle.

BEFORE JUSTICE BATES.

The court opened yesterday morning pursuant to adjournment. The first witness called was William Gilson, a witness for the people, who being sworn says:

I know this defendant; I live in Oil Creek township, on the road from Thompson's Mills to Titusville, about a half a mile from where the murder was said to have been committed; I was in Titusville in March last, and heard Mr. Burdick say that there were two persons present when Doyle was killed; he stated that the one who shot Doyle did not carry the gun away; the one who shot Doyle went down the creek; the other one took the gun and went across a point of woods between my house and Mr. Thompson's; went up on the ridge and left the gun at a certain house; did not state at what house; took the gun away the next day; this was about the substance of the observations of the defendant.

Cross-examined—I don't recollect the time in March; was trading in Titusville in Shurger's store; I am hard of hearing, but I think I understood him plainly; can't be mistaken about it; I told my wife and my neighbors about it; it made an impression on me; I told Graves about it; he came to see me about it and see a paper which I had about another murder; he inquired about Mr. Burdick, and asked me what I said; I stated to Mr. Graves that Mr. Burdick was a bad man; I had had some dealings with him and he did not come up to the mark; it referred to his honesty, not that he was a dangerous man; I live in a westerly direction from where the murder was committed; Thompson's is easterly from that place; don't know how the conversation commenced with Burdick in Titusville; I think he began it; he made inquiries of me about it; he asked if I saw a man who looked as if he had been fishing on that Sunday; I was from home that day; I don't know what Burdick's intention was in telling me what he did; don't know that his inquiries were in order to find out about the two men who were said to be lurking about that day; in conversation I do not always catch the full sound of what is said, unless my attention is drawn to the speaker; no one was present when I had this conversation with Burdick; I think I last told this story to Patrick McGee and John McCue; told Mr. Graves; he asked me to attend here; my recollection is not very good, but I recollect what I know; Mr. Burdick told me that I wanted to ferret out this murder.

Mary Doebler, for the people, sworn, says: On the 10th of June last, the day of Doyle's murder, I lived in Titusville, and went out to pick wintergreens, my husband and Mr. Turner went with me; I live over Mr. Bateman's store, on Franklin street; went out Main street towards the race ground on the side-hill; it was past the Spring Hill Refinery, across a small creek, by a small burying ground; while I was sitting there a gentleman came along from the side-hill; I went westward along Main street till I came to Spring street, followed Spring street past the refinery, crossed the small bridge, then turned to the right, passed through a pair of bars, went up the valley of a small run, past a burying ground; while I was sitting there a gentleman came along by me; had a hat on and took it off from time to time and wiped his face; had a cane; he walked a little lame; appeared to be in great haste; he had a light linen coat and dark pants on; a rowdy, low-crowned black soft hat; he appeared to be a middle aged man; I noticed that he had dark hair; he walked with his cane; he went between a walk and a run; he had a very red face.

Cross-examined—The man came down the hill to the Run, crossed the Creek, came back, crossed again, and went up the hill by the road; it was about ten o'clock.

Re-direct—The man was not in the road, when he came down the hill, but in the field.

Cross-examined—A gentleman came to me after the murder; I think it was not Mr. Burdick; I am positive about it; I saw a number of linen coats that summer; they were generally worn; the man passed within eight feet from me.

Thomas Gilson sworn for the people, says: I live three-quarters of a mile from Thompson's Mills; have talked with Burdick on this subject; he called at our house after the murder; some two or three weeks, in company with Mr. Carrier; he said he was trying to ferret out the perpetrator of the deed; he thought he was in a fair way to do it; Burdick thought the man that committed the deed was the same man I had seen coming from the direction of the place of the murder on that day; at another conversation, Burdick told me at Titusville, that he knew the man that killed Doyle; said he knew the height of the man, within half an inch; he said that he had ascertained that there was more than one man engaged in the murder; that one had taken one course, had crossed the creek, opposite the scene of the murder, or some point above; the other had taken down the stream, and crossed the creek opposite my house; that the one who had crossed above where I lived, had taken the gun, and had deposited it in some waste vacant house on Gilson's Ridge, till the next forenoon or morning; I understood from Burdick that the gun was taken away the next forenoon; don't recollect positively the conversation we had afterwards on this point; Mr. Burdick always appeared officious about this matter.

Cross-examined—Burdick appeared to be desirous to investigate this matter; in these conversations Burdick appeared to be relating what he had heard about the matter; to be acting as a detective; this conversation might have been four weeks after the murder; it was in subsequent conversations, in the winter, that Burdick told me about the man, as I have stated in my direct conversation; he told me that he had been down to Jefferson, subsequently; the defendant told me that he knew the man who killed Doyle; Burdick conveyed to me the idea, and told me in so many words, that it was Charley Chase who killed Doyle; he spoke of arresting Chase over the mountains, and of his getting away from him; Mr. Burdick suggested the idea of taking me to Jefferson county to see Chase, to see if he was the same man whom I saw crossing the creek on the day of the murder; he also suggested that others go along with me to ascertain the same fact; he said that my description of the man who crossed the creek answered that of Chase; Burdick said he knew his height; he did not say that he had measured him. Mr. Burdick asked me to give him the height of the man, and I gave him the height as near as I could.

Re-Direct: I told Burdick that I could not go to Jefferson county, to see Chase, on my own expense; he said that he would have that fixed; he never furnished any means to carry out his proposition; he said he thought the county would advance funds for that purpose; Burdick appeared to be very anxious to know the age and features of this man.

Harriet Matteson sworn for the people says: I have seen the defendant before; I saw him first, after the murder, at William Reynolds' about two weeks before the August Court, in 1866; this Reynolds lives in Rome township, Crawford county; he came there, pretending to be a friend; he came to tell me that some persons in that neighborhood were to be arrested; arrested concerning the Doyle murder; paid but little attention to what he said; he advised me to leave till after the August Court; the reason he gave that I was young, bashful; he talked as though they would say things to frighten me to say things falsely; I made no arrangements to leave; had not seen Mr. Burdick before; I had the conversation in Mr. Reynolds' house, up stairs, in a chamber; I had been sent for; was told that a friend wanted to see me; Mr. William Reynolds asked me to come and see Burdick at Reynolds' house; Burdick said that they would try to hire me to swear falsely; have not seen Burdick since that conversation till I saw him at Crittenden Hall, at the last trial; there was no friendship or relationship between Mr. Burdick and myself; never had any conversation with Burdick before or since the one I have related; I know Mr. Burdick to be the same person I saw at Reynolds'.

Cross-examined: Burdick did not intimate to me that I was to be arrested except as a witness; he used the words about their hiring me to swear falsely just as I stated before, or near as I can recollect; he used the words that I gave before; as near as I can remember; Mr. Wm. Reynolds was present at the time of the conversation referred to most of the time; Mrs. Josephine Matteson, my sister-in-law, was present part of the time; Mr. Burdick spoke of the letter which had been published by me in Titusville, and said that some people thought it was too well composed to have been written by a person so young as I was; I have stated all the conversation as near as I recollect; Burdick said nothing to me at the time about Doyle's money being left with me; have had no conversation with Mr. George Graves on the subject; Burdick said nothing about his being anxious about arresting John Doyle.

William Reynolds sworn for the people, says: I know the defendant; I live in Rome township, about four miles from the place of the murder; defendant came to my house; Mr. George W. Graves came to my house in July, 1866, one night after we had gone to bed; he asked me if a man could stay there all night; I said he could; I asked him who it was; he said Mr. Burdick; I think it was about the middle of July; Mr. Burdick came to my house; I took Burdick up stairs to bed; had no conversation with him that evening; in the morning Burdick told me he wanted to see Miss Matteson; I voluntarily went to Burdick's room; he asked me to go for Miss Mattison; Burdick was not up at the time I went to Mr. Matteson's; they were not up; it was early in the morning; Miss Matteson lived about three quarters of a mile from my house; I gave the message to her brother, and she came with her brother and his wife; I did not give Mr. B's. name; I said to Miss Matteson's brother that a gentleman wished to see her; Burdick did not want his name mentioned, and I did not give it; Burdick did not tell me what his business was with Miss Matteson; I went back to my house; Miss Mattison went up stairs; I took a chair up stairs, and I left them there, Miss Matteson and Mr. Burdick together; this was at Mr. Burdick's request; Mr. Burdick's breakfast was served up stairs; Mr. Burdick did not wish to eat with the family, to be known or identified; Miss Matteson took breakfast with the family, down stairs; Mr. Burdick had never been to my house; don't recollect when Miss Matteson left; Burdick afterwards came down and went away from my house.

Cross-examined—Burdick and Miss Matteson remained about a half hour or less in the room together; did not hear any conversation between them; had no conversation with Graves about what Burdick wanted.

Harriet Matteson sworn—Don't recollect what coat Burdick had on; he had light pants, patched; don't recollect the kind of hat he wore; he did not tell me what was his name; he sat in his chair; did not see him walk, as I recollect; I took breakfast at home; I do not know any of the Chases except Charley Chase, of Meadville.

J. G. Benton sworn says: I never heard Mr. Burdick speak of this matter.

L. R. Stonesworn says: Mr. Burdick has spoken to me about the Doyle murder; it was some time last winter; Mr. Burdick said he knew the very gun that killed Doyle; did not say how he knew it; said he knew the height of the man; I was in Mr. Shurger's grocery; Mr. S. was present; this was in Titusville, Crawford county, Pa., Oil Creek township.

Cross-examined—Don't know how the conversation occurred; said he was hunting up this murder case; he was reading the verses he had written on the subject; he said the gun was a six-shooter; he mentioned Charles Chase in connection with the murder of Doyle.

Sylvester J. Stone sworn says: I have heard Mr. Burdick say who was the murderer of John Doyle; I heard him say so in Titusville, on the street; I think when I came along Burdick was talking with a Mr. Ridgeway, I think it was Charles; Burdick said he would give me a hundred dollars if I would arrest Charles Chase; out of the bounty; I said if he would give me the money I would arrest Chase, or refund the money; he said he would give the money afterwards, and that if I would arrest him, he would bring the evidence to convict him.

Cross-examined—I understood from Burdick that Charles Chase was the man; I followed Charles Chase for some time; it was for another crime; I took no steps towards arresting Chase for the murder of John Doyle; I told Burdick that I was following Chase; Burdick was to have the swearing done, and I was to make the arrest.

The prosecution rested.

Mr. McCallister, counsel for the defendant, then moved for the discharge of the defendant, on the ground of the insufficiency of the evidence, upon which he commented. The Justice said there was some legal principles bearing upon some branches of the testimony, which he should like to have the counsel discuss. Mr. Sherwood expressed himself willing to have the defendant show who did the murder if he could do so. Prisoner had admitted his cognizance of the fact, and he wished to hear the whole matter divulged. Mr. Pierce then opened for the prisoner, and said that they should offer rebutting testimony, explanatory of the part the prisoner had taken in this transaction.

O. K. Howe, a witness for the defence, sworn, says: I knew John Doyle in his lifetime a year or more; he worked for me; was foreman in my barrel factory. Question: Have you taken any action towards the apprehension of the murderer of John Doyle? Answer: I have interested myself considerably; I went to Meadville before the Grand Jury to solicit a reward for the apprehension of the murderer of John Doyle; I went, at the solicitation of Mr. Burdick to Squire Mowbray's, and Mr. Burdick made a statement of the circumstances that he thought had a bearing upon the subject; his statement was taken in writing; Burdick did not mention any names or parties, but represented them by numbers; he did not seem to be willing to give their names; this was a short time, two or three weeks after the murder; it did not amount to anything at that time in my estimation, though I thought there might be something he was not ready to develop; Mr. Burdick suggested that a detective ought to be appointed to hunt the matter up; he wanted Squire Mowbray to aid in getting a detective for that purpose; Mr. Burdick has been pretty active in getting information on this subject from various parties; the defendant has told me repeatedly who killed John Doyle; he has said that Charles Chase was that man; he said he had arrested Mr. Chase.

Mr. Sherwood—The warrant is the best evidence of the arrest, I want to see the warrant. (Burdick here produced a bundle of papers and unwrapped it.) Sherwood—"There's the bundle, where's the basket? Why that looks like my washing, that came in last Saturday night, and the bill ain't paid either." The warrant was produced and objected to, as not originating in a Court of Record.

Justice Bates—"This pettifogging must stop; I don't care whether you call it legal or not. I shall go by common sense."

Sherwood—"That's just what I want."

The warrant was not received in evidence, and the magistrate continued the examination.

Howe, continued—Mr. Burdick has told me various circumstances from time to time, some having some bearing in my judgment, and others not; can't recall the particulars, but witness has some one hundred and fifty pages of foolscap of minutes. (What cap? said Sherwood.) This conversation was two or three weeks after the murder of Doyle; I was instrumental in offering a reward, myself, of one hundred dollars; can't fix the times particularly; don't know that Burdick ever got the appointment of a detective; was present before the District Attorney when Burdick related the matter; I made a journey into Warren county, to arrest Chase; got into the room with Chase; Burdick piloted us down there; Wilson, the Deputy Sheriff, went with me, also; Chase escaped from the window; this was last fall; Court was held at Warren by Judge Derrickson at the time; this is all I know I believe.

Cross examined—In August I was at Warren with Burdick; it was warm weather; Burdick may have had on a light coat; he wore a light coat often; I went at the suggestion of Burdick and Sheriff Krick; I have not been paid for it yet; I went to find the perpetrator of the murder; Mr. Burdick never talked of paying me; I should have been satisfied if I had succeeded in arresting the man who killed Doyle; the Sheriff had a warrant with him; was after Charles Chase when I went to Warren.

Question—Where did you find him after he got away?

Answer—I did not find him; I cannot say that I saw Charles Chase there; did not know him; heard it from others besides Burdick, that it was Chase; went on the same car from Corry to Warren with Mr. Burdick; when we got off the cars, can't say that Burdick and I kept in company all the time; Burdick and I went to a hotel together; he and I were not constantly together; we arrived at the saw-mill where Chase was at work about ten o'clock at night; the saw-mill was a long distance from Warren, and Burdick, Wilson and I went together in a carriage.

Adjourned till 9 o'clock Saturday.

TEMPERANCE MEETINGS.—Rev. Jas. A. Davidson, of the Good Templars, will lecture to-day, at one o'clock, at Centreville, and organize a Lodge, and this evening at half-past seven o'clock will lecture at Pleasantville, and organize a Lodge there. A respectable delegation of the members of the Order from Titusville will attend the evening meeting. Mr. Davidson will preach a Temperance sermon in the Brick Church, Titusville, on Sunday evening.

I. O. OF G. T. AT HYDETOWN.—Lady Washington Lodge I. O. of G. T., was organized at Hydetown on Thursday evening, by the State Lecturer of the Order, and the following officers elected:

W. C. Long, W. C. T.; Louisa M. Baker, W. V. T.; George L. Baker, W. S.; Mrs. W. C. Long, W. T.; Emily L. Murray, W. I. G.; H. G. Swift, W. O. G.; Miss Mary Brown, R. H. S.; Mrs. M. H. Murray, L. H. S.; Henry M. Newton, W. M.; Miss Grant, W. D. M.; K. L. Rogers, W. F. S.; Mrs. H. W. Myers, W. A. S.; L. Gladliz, P. W. C. T.; J. G. Murray, W. Chaplain. Lodge meets on Wednesday evening. There were forty-seven names on application for charter. Rev. W. Squier, of Petroleum Centre, and Messrs. Baldwin and Lyon, of Titusville, accompanied the Lecturer, and aided in the work of organization. The Lodge at Hydetown will do well and is about securing a large and commodious hall for meetings. The good citizens are all favorable to the work.

PETROLEUM CENTRE.—Rev. Jas. A. Davidson, State Lecturer, etc., visited the Lodge of Good Templars in this place on Tuesday evening and installed its officers. The Good Templars now meet in the new Masonic Hall, the first door east of the American House. The room is tastefully fitted up and every way rendered pleasant for such purposes. The following are the officers of "Petroleum" Lodge for the present quarter:

Isaac Halderman, W. C. T.; Mrs. R. O. Meldrum, W. V. T.; H. C. Jerves, W. S.; Miss Halderman, W. A. S.; Mr. Dickey, W. F. S.; Mrs. W. A. Loder, R. H. S.; Mrs. Young, L. H. S.; E. A. Squier, W. C.; Mrs. N. G. Huntington, W. T.; William Thompson, W. M.; Miss A. Artman, W. D. M.; Miss Clara Bates, W. I. G.; P. Carter, W. O. G.—Era.

BOOTS AND SHOES.—The question is often asked "where can a good article of boots or shoes be found in Titusville?" The matter is easily settled by calling on our friend Abram Einstein on Spring street, opposite the American. Mr. E. has just filled up his store with a full assortment from the extensive establishment of Pancoast, Sage & Co., Rochester, N. Y., a firm well known through the west and at home as one of the most reliable in the country, not only for the class of goods turned out by them, but for uprightness and honor in all their business transactions. At Mr. Einstein's store will be found all the newest styles of ladies, gentlemen, youths and children's wear. The class of work and the material used and brought into requisition in the fabrication of his stock makes it greatly superior to the general class of work brought to this city from the shops of New England. Parties buying from first hands, from manufacturers, have a great advantage over those who get their goods from New York jobbers. Give Mr. Einstein a call and our words will be verified.

HAIGHT ARCHER & Co. have been receiving a large invoice of choice groceries for the last few days, from their house in New York, bought for cash at ruinous low prices, and they are selling them much lower than any other house in town. That is the place to buy your groceries these hard times and save your money.

American Hotel—To the Public.—I take pleasure in announcing that on the 8th of April I re-opened the American Hotel and resumed its management in person. The house is thoroughly refitted and put in good order to accomodate in the best manner, those who may give it their patronage. If it has been my good fortune from long experience and care to be considered generally successful in the effort to give satisfaction, I would say that my exertions for that purpose shall be doubled and that all my old friends, who, knowing me well, and as many now once as may see fit to come, can find a good stopping place in Titusville at the "American" with S. M. MILLS.

Titusville, April 8, 1867.

Chautauqua Lake and its surroundings, form one of Nature's most charming pictures. Travelers may journey thousands of miles and find no scenery so enchanting, no landscape so beautiful!

Business men and dyspeptics generally, and the ladies in particular, go and take a trip on the Lake, breathe the pure and invigorating air, and behold some of the grandest scenery in the world! Nature's medicine is better for you than drugs connected by man; change your desk stool, your invalid easy chair, with its humdrum and wearying walls and curtains for a lounge on the steamer's deck, and a night of—

"Hills, rock-ribbed and ancient as the sun," and—

"Gentle vales with groves between."

Chautauqua Lake is fast becoming a favorite resort for invalids and tourists. To accommodate them, excellent hotels are established at either extremity of the Lake. Parties going to or from the oil regions to Buffalo will find this route as cheap, about as quick and far pleasanter, than by Erie.

The staunch steamer CHAUTAUQUA, has been refitted throughout this spring, and an awning added, extending from the hotel house to the stern, and began her regular trips from Jamestown to Mayville, April 23d. Passengers leaving Titusville at 6:41 a. m., Corry at 8:20, take the steamer at Jamestown and connect with the Lake Shore Railroad at Westfield; arrive at Buffalo at 6:20 p. m. Time 10 hours and 31 minutes.—James M. Murry, so well known and so popular, is still in command. HILL & MURRY, Proprietors.

PETROLEUM MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE MORNING HERALD, TITUSVILLE, May 10, 1867.

The Petroleum market opened firm, but owing to the adverse reports from New York, buyers for that market manifested but little disposition to purchase. In the vicinity of Petroleum Centre there was, however, considerable inquiry for the Cleveland and Pittsburgh markets. On the Stevenson Farm an offer was refused of $2 25 for 1,000 barrels of 48 gr., at the wells. On the McClintock Farm offers were freely made of $2 25 for 47 gr., at the wells. On Church Run 45 gr. is held at $2 25, at the wells. Pithole oil of 47 gr. is held at $2 52, delivered on the platform at Titusville. The sales reported to-day were as follows: 150 barrels on the McClintock Farm, from G. K. Anderson's wells, for the New York market, 47 gr., at $2 30, at the wells; 500 barrels on the McClintock Farm, from G. K. Anderson's wells, for the Pittsburgh market, 47 gr., at $2 25, at the wells; 300 barrels on Pioneer Run, from the Case well, for the Cleveland market, on private terms; 250 barrels on the McClintock Farm, from G. K. Anderson's wells, for the Pittsburgh market, 47 gr., at $2 25, at the wells; 700 barrels on Pioneer Run, from the Goss well, for the Cleveland market, on private terms.

[Special to the Morning Herald.]

PITTSBURGH, May 10.

CRUDE—The market is firm and moderatively active. All Sorts.

In a magistrate's court in Savannah, the other day, there was quite an exciting scene, growing out of the fact that the justice had hung upon the wall of his office a steel engraving illustrating the poem of the "Conquered Banner," and bearing an illustration of the rebel flag. Colonel Hesseltine, a lawyer interested in a pending case, protested that he would not plead in a court where that flag was displayed, and, after some sharp talk from rebel lawyers present, the "conquered banner" was turned face to the wall, and the case proceeded.

Miss Lou. Rogers, the young lady who ran away from her home in Springfield, Ill., and went to St. Louis with a handsome railroad conductor, but was captured by her mamma before the knot was tied, has again eluded the maternal vigilance, and this time successfully. She is now Mrs. Joseph Kent.

A Lenox (Mass.) farmer exchanged farms with a neighbor, this spring, receiving as boot $4,000. After moving to his new home, he became dissatisfied with the new arrangement and traded back, paying $900 for the privilege. He shortly after traded again for the same premises, and moved again, but is now trying to negotiate still again for his old home, offering $1,000 to his neighbor to swap back. A man who don't know his own mind better than that ought not to have any farm at all.

The Dayton, (Ohio), Journal states that the Mr. Brown who has lived in that city for the past two months without tasting food, came to his appetite a day or two since, the spirits having left him and got on his supply of "heavenly manna." He is now eating and drinking like any sensible man, growing invigorated by his return to human diet.

They have an odd way of doing up rampant females in Memphis. They stack 'em. A Memphis paper says: An obstreperous woman was taken to the Adams' street police station on Monday night, tied up in a bag, her head only being out. She was thus kept from doing mischief and was carried along on the back of a sturdy black man.

The Great Peter Force Library, which was purchased for $100,000 at the last session of the Thirty-ninth Congress, has been removed to the library of Congress at the Capitol, and Librarian Spofford is now engaged in arranging, cataloguing and classifying it generally. The volumes proper number about 30,000, while the pamphlet literature, in which it greatly abounds, will carry it up to 60,000 or 70,000 more.
